

BBC 6 Minute English Listening Practice

Chocolate: Meet a Real Willy Wonka

Name: _____

Class: _____

Score: _____ / 10

NO MORE THAN THREE WORDS - Developing a new chocolate bar

No.	Sentence
1	Information for new ideas comes from _____ around the world.
2	The team creates both the product and its _____.
3	A product that sells poorly can teach the team useful _____ about its work.
4	The company starts promoting a new bar when consumer _____ is strong.
5	Blueberry Truffle and the heart-shaped Geisha bar are examples of products that were commercially _____.

11 How does the developer's actual work differ from the imagined job of travelling simply to eat chocolate?

- A She collects customer orders from shops before designing each bar.
- B She judges when new ideas should be developed and brought to market.
- C She samples finished bars abroad before choosing a factory to produce them.
- D She visits international stores to copy their most popular chocolate bars.

12 What chiefly makes the developer feel proud when a new product is well received?

- A Her opportunity to taste more chocolate than other employees.
- B Her success in finding raw materials at a lower cost.
- C Her personal decision about when the product should go on sale.
- D Her team's work in creating the product and its taste experience.

13 How does the developer compare products that fail with those that sell well?

- A Both can be valuable because an unsuccessful product teaches the team something.
- B Both deserve the same advertising because sales cannot reveal their quality.
- C Failed products are more valuable because they are easier to develop again.
- D Strong-selling products provide more useful feedback than failed ones can.

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.

- 14 What order of events is described when demand for a new bar is strong?
- A Shops stock the bar, then the company decides whether to promote it.
 - B Customers choose the bar, then the team begins developing it.
 - C The company promotes the bar before it becomes available in shops.
 - D The company promotes the bar only after customers reject its first version.
- 15 What do the examples of Blueberry Truffle and the Geisha bar show about the developer's work?
- A New chocolate bars are generally designed as pairs of products.
 - B She has produced notable hits, although not every new bar succeeds.
 - C Fruit flavours and unusual shapes now guide most of her team's designs.
 - D These bars succeeded chiefly because of the way they were packaged.